Sen Operated Upon—County Commissioner and Mrs. M. P. Brown departed last night for Philadelphia, Pa., where they will go to the bedside of their son, Arthur P. Brown, an officer in the United States navy. They received a telegram yesterday announcing that their son had been obliged to undergo an operation. Wires sent from them failed to bring any reassuring information and the parents decided to go at once to the son.

Music for Schools—The city schools today received about two dozen new phonograph records for distribution among the different buildings. There are two phonographs in each building in the city and the instruments and music are found to be of great value in physical culture instruction. The new records consist mainly of march and dance music.

Guest of Cannors—William C. Leitch, former president of the National Cannors' association, was the guest of the Utah cannors last night at the Weber club at a little informal dinner. Several cannors from Weber county, Box Elder, Davis and Morgan counties were present. Several national issues with regard to the cannoring industry were discussed during the evening. Mr. Leitch visited the Morgan cannery yesterday on his way to Ogden and continued to the city by automobile. He left today for California.

Clean-up Time—The annual Utah clean-town contest is now under way, according to Dr. T. B. Beatty, state health commissioner secretary. Arrangements have been made for scoring every town listed in the contest and the judges will do their work unknown, probably, to the residents of the town. The standardized score card will be used this year in making the score. Ogden has won first place in this contest and has always taken a high place.

Will Take a Trip—Ed Barrows, doorman for the past five years at the Lyceum theater, has resigned his position and will depart next Saturday night for a six months' tour of the eastern states. He will go to New York, Baltimore and other cities. He expects to return to Ogden next November.

Indexing—Work of indexing Weber county registrants in the occupational card system was again started last evening at the county office with a force of seven voluntary workers assisting Clerk Ed Lewis. The county schools have supplied the force of voluntary workers for this work and the cards have been filled out up to date as fast as a supply was received. Those at work last night were Fred M. Pyle, Vera Shaw, Cecil Farley, Emily B. Folkman, Virginia Petterson, Hazel Wolhaupter, Harriet Farley.

VINCENT SEXTON WRITES TO ELKS

There are now forty-seven members of Ogden lodge No. 719, B. P. O. Elks, on the club's honor roll of men who have joined the service of Uncle Sam and are on active duty, according to the latest issue of the "Booster," published today. There are eight more names to be added to the list.

The members remaining at home are keeping up the dues of these members in the service and a red, white and blue card, telling them that their dues are paid up until the "end of the war," has been mailed to each man.

A letter received recently by the secretary of the club from Vincent Sexton, former newspaperman on the staff of the Standard, who now is at Camp Kearny with the hospital division, tells how the men there are anxious to go. It follows:

"Dear Bill: Just a line to thank you for the little red, white and blue card informing me that my dues in Ogden lodge were paid up until the end of the war. Drawing down the principal stipend of thirty-three needs a month it is needless to state that the paid-up card was most acceptable.

"Have not yet received my orders to report to the aviation school for training, although about three weeks ago I was notified by the chief signal officer at Washington to make my final application for transfer, etc., having been thoroughly successful. The little old war only lasts six or eight months longer I have no doubt but that I'll get my chance at the Deutsch planes.

"The boys are about 'fed up' on training and are 'arin' to go. Here's one chicken who'll not be sorry.

"When I'll see you again is problematical, but in the words of the advertisement, it's sure to be 'Eventually'—if not sooner." For the present, adios, As ever,

"VINCENT SEXTON."

PROCEEDINGS OF CITY COMMISSION

A number of matters were finally and formally disposed of this morning by the city commission. A petition that was filed at the end of the last complaining against the pond in the rear of the Holly Milling company's plant, which they use for power purposes was reported on by Mayor T. S. Browning. His report was to the effect that the city sanitary and health department had failed to find the condition of the pond as represented by the petition.

City Engineer Joseph Tracy reported to the city commission that according to his recommendation concerning the power proposed to be taken from the South Fork of the Ogden river and for which the city had made claim by filing on it, he had asked the city engineer's office for an extension of time and the same had been granted. The new time to commence the construction work is until April 1, 1920.

A petition from the Craig Canning company for a four-inch water line to be put into the company's plant at Five Point was referred to the superintendent of waterworks and supply. Mayor Browning reported that he had requested the city recorder to notify County Clerk Charles M. Ramey to proceed with the purchase of extra booths, annexes and ballot boxes. Mr. Ramey was notified that the purchases made last fall were not adequate and the additional purchases should be made without delay. The city and county will purchase together 22 booths at $8.50; 44 annexes at $7.50, and 22 ballot boxes at $5 each.

DEAL PRACTICALLY CLOSED FOR WILLARD-FULTON BOUT AND BIG ARENA TO BE BUILT IN OGDEN

At the big stock sale going at the Union Stock Yards are horse and cattle men from all parts of the United States, two representatives being on hand from far away middle Tennessee. They are all well acquainted with each other, though they live many miles apart. They meet in various parts of the country from time to time, though perhaps nowhere more frequently than they do in Ogden, for this city is fast becoming the central stock market for the whole country, especially in the matter of horse and mule selling and buying.

The men are great sports. Their business makes them that way. Sporting blood runs true to form with them and they link quick decision with keen judgment and an element of chance in making their dollars move.

Yesterday the different buyers were handicapping Otto Meek, manager of the Ogden Horse Sale company, which firm has made a big bid for the Willard-Fulton fight for the Fourth of July and stands a good chance of getting it. They were all enthusiastic about bringing the championship battle to Ogden. Mr. Meek said it would be some trouble for him to stage the big show, but he could better afford to bring it here than to go a long distance to see it. He is a very busy man and expected to be so busy around the Fourth of July that he could not get away.

The Horse Sale company made a bid which the stock men characterize as "offering $75,000, plumb cold turkey." The cold turkey stuff means they will offer the sum in order to bring the show here, regardless of financial prospects. If they win, that is all in the game, and if they lose, it is all in the game.

From the present indications it seems that the big bout will come here.

ORATORS OF TWO LOCAL SCHOOLS TO COMPETE TODAY

Three orators from the Ogden high school and three from the Weber normal college will compete this afternoon at the Ogden Tabernacle for the annual prizes offered by Dr. Edward L. Rich. The first prize is a cash gift of $35 and the second a cash gift of $15.

The three who will represent the high school with their subjects are as follows:

Hattiebell Shields, "A Tribute to Woodrow Wilson"; Laurene Shields, "Our Call to Service"; Carol Sandstrum, "Liberty and the American People."

The three who will represent the normal college and their subjects are as follows:

Russell Petty, "Duties of an American Citizen"; Carl Storey, "America's War Aims"; Douglas Leishman, "America At War."

The Rich oratorical contest has been the subject for several years past of much rivalry between the two schools. The Weber Normal college has taken the prize the greatest number of times, having won the last three contests while the high school won the former two. Because the score is so close it is expected the orators will push themselves to great efforts this afternoon.

The contest will commence at 3 p. m. and everyone is invited. John Culley will be chairman of the meeting and the judges who have been selected are G. M. Sullivan and Professor Quiley of Salt Lake, the latter of the English department of the state university. There is to be one more judge but the selection had not been made early this afternoon.

The oratorical contest is held each year on the birthday of Dr. Rich. He is a member of the school board and has taken pains to promote public speaking in the schools.

BOSTON MUST DEPEND ON HITTING ABILITY TO WIN

My investigations, he said, "carried me into every American landing port in France; into rest camps and training camps, and for ten days I was practically in our front line, including two nights and three days in a front-line dugout. I was right with our men all the time. I messed with them, slept with them and experienced two barages with them.

My whole experience convinced me that the administration of our war activities in France is amazingly efficient. Our railroads, our camps, our food, our water supply, and our rapidly increasing military equipment are miracles of swift and thorough achievement.

In the business of keeping our soldiers physically and morally fit, the program of our military authorities is the most comprehensive and aggressive ever laid out by a nation at war. The stories of wholesale drunkenness and vice circulated in some quarters at home concerning the American expeditionary force were false. While some men and groups of men have committed grave excesses and shamed their uniforms, the small number of those in proportion to the total number under arms is a source of gratification and pride to every citizen, who believes in the moral soundness of American society. My own investigations substantiate the figures already made public by the army medical department, which prove that the American soldier in France is living on a higher moral plane than the moral plane of American civilian life. General Pershing and his associates deserve not a resolution of inquiry and censure but a vote of confidence and the

RUSSIAN EMPRESS MUST BE PROTECTED

PETROGRAD, Feb. 28.—(Mail.)—One of the first requests put before the Russian delegates at Brest-Litovsk, according to the Petrograd newspaper, was for the Emperor William to be the safe-guarding of the former Russian Empress Alexandra Wilk.

The following account of this incident is taken from the Wozny Courier:

At the first meeting, after the representatives of the Bolshevik government and the delegates of the Russian army had assembled in the large room which had been devoted to the meeting, General von Hoffman with his staff came in. The two parties bowed to one another and the Russians sat down at the table.

General Hoffman remained standing and addressed them. "I speak to you," he said in a stern voice, "not as the representative of the German army, nor of General Hindenburg. I speak to you as the representative of the four Central powers. I request you therefore to stand while you hear what I have to say."

The members of the Russian delegation looked at one another, there was a little hesitation, and they stood up.

General von Hoffman continued: "Before proceeding to any negotiations respecting an armistice, I think it necessary to make the following statement. Within the area of Russia, in circumstances threatening her personal safety, is living a most august relative of my sovereign master, the emperor William, namely Princess Alix, your Empress Alexandra, with all her family.

I demand that most decided measures be instantly taken for the safe-guarding of her person and for her transfer to Germany under a reliable guard. I request your immediate reply."

The members of the delegation did not know how to reply, and asked that they should be given time for consideration, and for consultation with Petrograd over their direct wire.

Scarcely had an interpreter translated these words than General von Hoffman said, with a great show of temper, "I demand an instant reply."

"This demand," he continued, "is in the nature of an ultimatum. In the event of your not accepting it, the negotiations will cease forthwith, and hostilities will be at once recommenced by us."

There remained nothing for the members of the Russian delegation to do but to give their consent to the demands made.

EPISCOPALS OF OGDEN RECEIVE A WAR LETTER

At the Episcopal church at 11 a. m. Sunday, the following letter from the Rt. Rev. Wm. Lawrence, chairman of the war commission of the Episcopal church, was as follows:

"To the clergy and laity of the church: Your war commission gratefully announces that the amount thus far received in money and pledges from various contributions and from the offerings of Sunday, January 27th, is about $600,000. The ministrations of the church are now following the men and boys of the army and navy here and across the seas. Chaplains are equipped; voluntary chaplains and lay workers are in every larger camp in this country; our soldiers and sailors know that the church is with and behind them, supporting, comforting and inspiring them.

"Your commission now ventures to send this additional message through our church:

"When the nation entered the war, one year ago, its object, as stated in the message of the president, was 'to vindicate the principles of peace and justice in the life of the world, as against selfish or autocratic power.' We gave this assurance to our sister nations. We have no selfish ends to serve. We desire no conquest, no dominion. We are but one of the champions of the rights of mankind. We shall be satisfied when those rights have been made as secure as the faith and freedom of the nation can make them. To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, every-

EAT HORSE MEAT AT LUNCHEON GIVEN AT NOON YESTERDAY TO LOCAL AND VISITING GUESTS

A fine little luncheon was served yesterday in the office of the Ogden Horse Sale & Commission company, and the guests all partook freely of horse meat which had been brought by the host of the occasion from Grand Island, Nebraska. But the guests, who were horse buyers and sellers attending the big sale now on at the Union Stock yards, did not know until after they had finished that they were eating horse meat.

The lunch was a practical joke played on the others by Tom Bradstreet of Grand Island, one of the best known horse buyers in the country. Recently he has opened a horse-meat market at Omaha and he bids fair to do a big business. He opened such a market at Grand Island some time ago and the venture was so successful that he decided to try it in Omaha.

Mr. Bradstreet buys many horses from various parts of the country and, when he finds one that is not fit for legitimate commerce, he takes the hoof, he makes it fit for commercial trade on the hoof. He came here a few days ago to buy stock at the big sale going on at the yards and brought some horse meat made into dried beef and bologna and all ready to eat.

Yesterday was one of the busy days at the market and the buyers did not want to lose the time it would take to come up town for lunch. So big genial Tom Bradstreet announced that he had a handbag full of sandwiches and other delicacies.

Some of the buyers found it convenient to come up town, but most of them accepted the hospitality of smiling Tom.

They went into the office of the company and Tom brought the lunch on a tray and spread the feast on a fine old top desk.

When it was all eaten and not a crumb was left, the host announced that he had fed them on his sterling brand—horse-meat.

Nobody offered to shoot Tom, for they all agreed it was a good joke and a fine way to stimulate conversation.

During the afternoon, whenever horse went slow in the sale, some one would remark that he was long on body and would make good sausage.

Those who were present at the sale and partook of the lunch were: Bradstreet, the host; H. Salzer, Rock Springs, Wyoming; R. Buck, Idaho Falls; Billy McKinstry, New York; a buyer for Fliz, Doyle and Carroll, John Smead, of Caldwell, Idaho, buyer for the Caldwell Horse & Mule company; Art Walker, of Caldwell, Idaho; P. A. Mattson, Ogden; Sam Parker, Grand Island, Neb.; Dell Adams, Layton, Utah; Frank Layton, Layton, Utah; Dr. H. E. Wilson of Tennessee; and Otto Meek of Ogden.

fuel and light, the restriction of travel, and the comforts as well as the luxuries of daily life; to whatever call for service in the Red Cross, shop or factory, in the home, at the rear or the front, the members of Christ's church will respond.

"These are days for quick obedience and cheerful action, for self-discipline of those at home as well as at the front. These are days for a stout heart and a steady nerve. We have undertaken the crusade; in the steps of the Savior we must walk today and tomorrow and the day following.

"Beneath and behind these great motives and high deeds, we have the support of a steadfast faith in God. He bids us to move forward. In the home, in the church, in the barracks, out upon the field of corn or the field of battle, every Christian will lift up heart and life to God. To every man, woman and child in the church the command comes to take his part in the crusade. We will every one of us give answer to the challenge of our Lord. He that findeth his life shall lose it; and he that loseth his life for my sake shall find it."

"As your representative in war activities, we venture to remind you of these definite duties.

"First. The third Liberty loan makes its demand on every member of Christ's church. The strength of our lives, and the victories of our boys and men depend directly upon their munitions, barracks, hospitals, ships and supplies; and these depend directly upon your economies and sacrifices in subscribing to the Liberty loan.

"Second. For the support of our allies and for our own defense, the field of corn or the field of battle, they will work upon the farms and gardens for the vindication of peace and justice.

"Third. To whatever demands the authorities make, the conservation of

RETURNS TO OGDEN

E. E. Munson, former hotel man of Ogden, has purchased a half interest in the Plaza apartments on Washington avenue and has taken over the management of that popular place. The deal, through which Mr. Munson purchased a half interest of J. T. Kioth of Salt Lake, was consummated by Willard Kay, the consideration being of no little importance.

Mr. Munson was formerly connected with the Reed hotel and later with the Marion. He has been away from Ogden for some time past, but states that he is glad to return and again be identified with Ogden interests.
